HONGKONG, JANUARY 17TH, 1911.

The serious note sounded by Mr. Lau Chu Pak in his address to the boys of Ellis Kadoorie School on Saturday was very timely, and no thoughtful reader of that speech can take exception to the sentiments uttered or to the warning delivered on that occasion. Without being pessimistic, it deplored one feature of the change which is passing over China—the decay of reverence, the disappearance of respect for parents, teachers and those in authority. No lover of China can witness such changes without regret. But though we join in expressing our disapproval of the conditions outlined by the speaker, we cannot help regarding them as a phase, temporary rather than permanent, of the evolution through which the race is passing. The national regeneration of China, which is the wish of many Chinese themselves as well as of their foreign sponsors, cannot be accomplished without a great mental upheaval, and consequently the traditions and customs and beliefs which have hitherto influenced life and conduct are being attacked on all sides. The good in these which has enabled them to survive so many centuries is apt to be overlooked in the onslaught which is being made on the institutions of the Empire, and their value becomes discounted in the burning enthusiasm for the brighter and greater knowledge radiating from the West. This is unfortunate, but it is inevitable. The progress which China has to undertake before coming into line with the other nations

The funeral of Mrs. Shires took place yesterday afternoon at the Happy Valley. The remains were followed by a large number of friends, and many of the European and Chinese employees of the H.M. Naval Yard also attended to pay their tribute of respect to the deceased lady, and to show their sympathy with the bereaved husband. The Rev. H. O. Spink officiated.

At the Magistracy yesterday, before Mr. E. R. Halifax, Acting Bomber Ashford and Gunner Cooper of the R.G.A. were charged with stealing two watches from a shop at 192, Queen's Road. The defendants on entering the shop asked to be shown some watches, and each man put a watch in his pocket and walked out. His Worship sentenced each defendant to two weeks' imprisonment with hard labour.

By direction of the Lords of the Admiralty half crews are to be selected at the Chatham depot for despatch to the Far East to relieve the half crews which have completed two years' service in the armed shallow-draught river steamers Teal, Moerhen, Woodcock, Sandpiper and Robin, employed on river duties on the China Station. The ratings are to embark on January 31 from Portsmouth in the cruiser Crescent for passage to Hongkong. The Crescent will also take out to the Far East new full crews for five destroyers and nucleus crews for two destroyers, and half crews for the armed river steamers Widgeon, Woodlark, Snipe, Nightingale, and Kinsha. Portsmouth and Devonport depots will each furnish two full crews for destroyers, and one full crew and two nucleus crews for destroyers will be selected at Chatham. of the world is so vast as to involve a complete transformation, and the alterations necessary are so radical in nature that they cannot be accomplished without a tremendous change in thought as well as in social and economic conditions. Trial and experiment must be the order of the coming years in China. New ideas have to be grafted on to older and well-tried beliefs; many old teachings will have to be abandoned, and to evolve a system of civilisation, worthy of the great knowledge to which the foremost nations have reached, which shall at the same time be suited to the Oriental environment, trial and experiment will be necessary. Considerable time must elapse and much experience gained before old and new conditions can be readjusted, and the period of transition must of necessity reveal much that is unsatisfactory. In passing from the old régime the tendency cannot be other than subversive of established authority—civil, social, and religious—and some years will have to pass before the educational harvest is reaped and before the ideas which represent the new régime have become assimilated. For instance, the parochial idea represents a belief that the Throne is incapable of governing or of framing laws unaided. That must be followed by a lessening of the veneration for the Throne. The new education has the effect of belittling the wisdom of the ancients in China; it explodes old beliefs and ideas. Consequently, the younger generation feel inclined to question the teaching of their elders, and in some instances to show a lack of respect. Such conduct is regrettable certainly, but we believe it will not last longer than the transition period.

Filial obedience and respect to elders is so innate a quality of the Chinese that we believe the disrespect and absence of manners noticeable among many of the young will be curbed by the force of public disapproval, and this, operating with a better understanding of the new culture, should result in the desirable prospect of a new, and enlightened China, whose sons shall also be courteous and dignified.

The only communicable disease reported in the Colony last week was one Chinese case of diphtheria.

H.E. the Governor has kindly consented to distribute the prizes at the Yau Ma Tei School on Saturday next.

Invitations are out for the Hongkong Volunteer Dance, which takes place on Friday, February 11th, at the City Hall.

We direct attention to the announcements made on page 4 regarding the public address to Sir Henry May, and the farewell presentation to Lady May.

We are requested to state that Lady Lugard will not be "at Home" on the afternoon of Friday, 20th instant, but that she will be "at Home" on Thursday, 19th instant, at 4.30 p.m. instead.

Four Chinese were charged before Mr. J. R. Wood at the Magistracy yesterday with slaying a bullock outside a slaughter house, and the printing plant of such totally wrecked. The first defendant was fined $25 or one month imprisonment, and the other three were discharged.

Return of visitors to the City Hall Library and Museum for the week ending the 15th January shows that of non-Chinese there were 403 to the Library and 237 to the Museum, and of Chinese 177 to the former and 2,138 to the latter. The Library was, therefore, used by 580 persons and the Museum by 3,425.

HONGKONG COLLEGE OF MEDICINE.

GRATIFYING SUCCESSES AT EDINBURGH UNIVERSITY.

The many friends of the Hongkong College of Medicine will be pleased to learn that two of its lieutenants, Dr. Wong Chung Yik and Dr. Lee See Foon, who qualified here as recently as 1908 and have spent the past two years in post-graduate's study in the University of Edinburgh, have been most successful in the class honours lists and were on December 21st admitted to the degrees of M.B. and B.Chr. of that University, while Dr. Wong Chung Yik was the only candidate out of the 51 admitted to these degrees on the above date who obtained Honours.

This is a most opportune success for the College of Medicine in view of its pending incorporation in the University of Hongkong and serves to show that the teaching of medical subjects by the Lecturers of the College is carried out in a most efficient manner and that the College is fully entitled to take its place as the medical faculty of our new University.

DAMAGING A TRAMCAR.

A Chinese was charged before Mr. E. R. Halifax at the Magistracy yesterday with damaging a tramcar, and with offering an Indian constable a bribe of 25 cents. The evidence showed that when the car was near the end of its journey west the defendant, who was standing alongside the line with another Chinese, jumped on the footboard. The conductor asked for his fare, but he refused to pay and jumped off. When the car had rounded the loop and come to a standstill at the terminus, the defendant, who was standing near the line with a bribe in his hand, told the conductor he was too proud and at the same moment threw the bribe at him. The conductor ducked his head, and the bribe struck the paneling of the car. Defendant then ran away, but was pursued and captured by the conductor, and handed over to an Indian constable, whom he offered a bribe to liberate him. The defendant yesterday denied being the man who threw the bribe, and told his Worship that the constable took the 25 cents out of his purse. His Worship imposed a fine of $50 or six weeks' imprisonment on the first charge, and $10 or two weeks' imprisonment on the second charge.

SIR HENRY MAY.

PRESENTATION OF AN ADDRESS AT THE Y.M.C.A.

Seldom have the Y.M.C.A. Rooms in Alexandra Buildings been so thronged as they were last night on the occasion of Sir Henry May's farewell to the Association with whose work he has been so closely identified since its inception in the Colony. The attendance included H.E. Governor, Lady May, and many leading members of the community. The chair was taken by Mr. P. H. Holyoak. In an interval of the programme,

Mr. A. H. Harris, on behalf of the members, presented an address to Sir Henry May, who had filled the office of chairman of the Board of Directors for eight years, and his departure left a gap in their ranks which is difficult to fill. The Board of Directors would shortly have to fill the vacancy, for which they wanted one of the leading business men in sympathy with the aims of the Association.

The address was in the following terms:

The Members of the European Young Men's Christian Association desire to express their deep regret at the approaching departure of their President, Sir Henry May, K.C.M.G., from Hongkong. Joining the Board of Directors from the earliest days, in May, 1905, when it was intended that one Board should have oversight of the two Departments, European and Chinese, Sir Henry May remained at the head of the European Branch on the separation of the two Departments. His strong practical common sense, his sympathy, the regularity of his attendance as Chairman, and the willing share which he took in assisting to raise subscriptions for the furtherance of the Association's work, these and such like qualities have impressed themselves on the minds of the Members and have been of great assistance to all his colleagues on the Board of Directors.

The work of the Association has been carried on under many difficulties but we take pleasure in recording the perseverance and cheery optimism of Sir Henry May. We likewise desire to thank him for the help so willingly accorded at the social gatherings of the Association; to which gatherings Lady May's frequent help and presence gave assured success and much pleasure.

We are confident that the encouragement given to the Association in Hongkong will be readily accorded to kindred work in the new and higher sphere of labour to which Sir Henry May has been called. We offer him our hearty congratulations on his promotion and our best wishes for his continued success.

Sir Henry May in reply said—Life is full of surprises, and you have given me one to-night. When I came into this room I had no idea you were going to do me the honour of presenting me with an address. I thank you for the honour. I shall prize the address very highly. I thank you for the kind words with which it was accompanied. When the proposition was made to me some eight years ago to found a branch of the Y.M.C.A. here, I took up the project at once, because my long experience of the Colony told me that there was room for such an association which, if it were successful, would do much good here. The difficulties were great. Land was scarce and rents were high, and to be successful we had to have quarters in the business part of the town. There was also this difficulty. No club in this colony is able to pay its way without a bar. We are temperance association. We have no bar. We know at the outset that it would be impossible for us to pay our way without outside assistance, but it has been our object to avoid going round begging with the hat from the rich and the generous, and we only sought the support of those who ought to be interested in the association, that was, the large employers of labour. It has taken us some time to get the employers of labour to thoroughly understand our position.

We want solid assistance not by way of charity but for values received. (applause.) I am glad to tell you that a large number of the large employers of labour now understand our objects and we have now an annual donation list of which we are fully secure. The largest subscriber on our list is, I think, the firm of Messrs Jardine, Matheson and Company (applause). That annual subscription list obviates begging and enables the association to continue its successful career. Mr. Harris says we want a home of our own. I don't think we are likely to get that, but still I think you may look forward with confidence to the continued success of the association. I can assure every member of the community that the object of the association is a good one and deserving of support from those who can give. In conclusion I have again to thank the members for the beautiful address and to all members for having signed it.

The programme, which was arranged by Mrs. Atkinson, was most enjoyable. Those who took part were Mrs. Badsey, Mrs. Lindsey, Mrs. Lawton, Miss Parker, Captain Mitchell-Taylor, Mr. A. E. Paine, and Mr. G. Balloch.

Sir Henry May in response to many requests gave one of his favourite Irish recitations.

PRESENTATION TO MR. J. L. MACPHERSON.

At the meeting in the Y.M.C.A. Rooms last night that was taken of the occasion to present Mr. J. L. MacPherson, the secretary, with a handsome silver cake basket as a wedding gift from the members. Sir Henry, in making the presentation, said it was his pleasure duty on behalf of the members of the Association to present that gift to Mr. MacPherson as a slight token of their appreciation of his services and as an expression of their good wishes in his forthcoming marriage. (Applause.)

Mr. MacPherson made a brief acknowledgment.

HONGKONG BENEVOLENT SOCIETY.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the members of the Hongkong Benevolent Society was held yesterday at noon. The Hon. Mr. H. Keswick presided, and was supported by Lady May and Mrs. Pollock. Apologies for absence were read from Bishop and Mrs. Landier.

The annual report was read as under:

The ladies of the Committee beg to submit the following report and statement of accounts for 1910. During the year the work of the Society has gone on steadily, and several very urgent cases of need have been relieved. Regarding those helped, the rules of the Society prevent much from being said publicly, but a short account of some of the cases is appended. In seven instances definite news has subsequently reached us showing that the help given to meet a crisis has been given in a fresh start in life and in better days for the recipients. In addition to thirty cases kindly attended to by the Reverend C. E. Thompson and helped with money granted to him for the purpose, the Committee have received fifty-three applications. The case of each applicant has been duly investigated and considered. Forty received assistance either with clothing, temporary board and lodging, situations or passages to places where they had relatives or promises of work; ten were not helped; and three were brought to the notice of those who were willing to help them privately. Eleven of the applications come from women and each was helped in some way. Two whose husbands had deserted them and three who were widows were helped to go to relatives; one whose husband had promised work elsewhere was enabled to accompany him and to take her children with her; another whose husband had already secured work was assisted to take is one of the many causal every day infarctions wherein turks much unnoticed in wisdom. The man who looks alive is always and everywhere successful. In business, it is he who gets to the top. In society it is the active, progressive, irreverent person who is most run after. In the domestic circle it is the enterprising member who most completely wins and holds all affection. Therefore look alive! If you are suffering from anything which robs you of your healthy alertness attend to the trouble once and done. It is a simple secret. ## THE BISHOP OF MACAO.

MISSION TOUR.

(Concluded.)

XMAS DAY AT SHIU HING.

Christmas Day was spent at Shiu Hing. At midnight of the 24th, an extraordinary throng of Christians from the different missions came to assist at the Xmas festivities celebrated in the Church by the Portuguese Prelate, his Lordship Bishop Azevedo e Castro celebrated his first Mass attended by two missionaries. The Christians said their prayers in their musical dialect, as is usually done by the faithful of those missions. At the Communion the 140 persons approached the Holy Table, having confessed and been duly prepared on the eve by the priests. At the close of the Mass, his Lordship attired in his cope went in procession to the place where a crib was laid, singing with the clergy the Magnificat.

The crib was artistically arranged at the foot of the altar of the Sacred Heart, on the Gospel side, surrounded with a profusion of palms and flowers, surmounted by a golden star. The beautiful image of the child Jesus, with eyes open and arms outstretched, was incensed and reverently kissed by the Bishop, who gave it in turn to all the priests and faithful to kiss, while the congregation sang the Adeste fideles with enthusiasm and devotion.

Before the midnight Mass, a catechist and a good Christian, having a thorough knowledge of the local dialect, with the consent of the missionary-in-charge, addressed the congregation, relating the history of the birth of the Child-God and of the appearance of the angels to the shepherds.

The second Mass said by his Lordship was at 7 o'clock in the morning, when the attendance of Christians was quite as large as before; over 20 received the Holy Communion.

It had been announced that a Pontifical Mass would be celebrated by his Lordship the Bishop on this day with every possible solemnity, finishing with the Papal Blessing, which his Lordship, by apostolic authority, can administer at any special feast of his choice. In fact at 9 o'clock in the morning, his Lordship the Bishop having taken his Pontifical vest, especially arranged at the main altar, and being attired in his official robes, started the Solemn Mass, acolyted by the Rev. Fathers Francisco Sito and Adroaldo M. dos Santos, and the chief assistant, Rev. Fr. Alves da Silva, the senior missionary of the diocese, who accompanied the Bishop during his tour. The music was conducted by the Rev. Fr. Pitta Lages, missionary-in-charge of the Shiu Hing district, who, at the Gospel, stepped forward and delivered an appropriate sermon in Chinese with admirable fluency.

At the conclusion of the Mass, his Lordship substituted his chasuble for a rich cope and took his seat under a palanquin, while the Deacon intoned the Confiteor and the congregation received the Papal Blessing administered by the Bishop according to the Ritual. The Blessed Sacrament was exposed during the evening in the little Church of Shiu Hing, during which the hymn Pange lingua was sung by the choir, concluding with the Benediction of the Holy Sacrament, after which Confirmation was administered by the Bishop to Christians who had come from some far-off districts. Finally there was the Christmas-tree. A request had been made to Macao, to the Rev. Dr. A. Gomes, the parish priest of Sto. Antonio and the founder of the pious institution named "Pio dos Pobres" for a small contribution for the poor of Shiu Hing on this particular occasion. The request was promptly attended to, and consisted partly of a variety of toys and sweets for the children, dolls, handkerchiefs, socks, singlets and interesting little articles. All these things were hung on a small tree at the entrance of the mission house. The delight of the children and people when the distribution started was most marked. The only duty now remaining for his Lordship the Bishop to fulfil at the close of his mission was to personally call on the local authorities in order to thank them for all the demonstrations of respect and consideration shown to him in giving him a bodyguard for the tour and for placing a squad of policemen at the mission house for his protection. His Lordship the Bishop sent his secretary, to the Prefect of the City with a message announcing his intended visit, and messages were subsequently sent to the two mandarins, chiefs of the civil and military departments. The Taotai had relinquished his post.

At 10.30 a.m. of the same day, the Bishop left the mission house, in a gala-chair, accompanied by the Rev. Fr. M. Alves da Silva, Pitta Lages, Adrealdo dos Santos and the sub-deacon, Joao de Lima, in chairs, the bodyguard leading the way. Arriving at the Prefect's residence, they were escorted into the reception room, where a guard of honour was posted and the Prefect came to meet the Bishop. His Lordship in a short speech, which was interpreted by the Rev. Fr. Pitta, said that the object of his visit was to thank the Prefect of Shiu Hing for the proofs of consideration and esteem received in his district, mentioning particularly the bodyguard and the squad of policemen assigned for his protection. His Lordship said he had admired the richness and fertility of the country, and he expressed his admiration of the many good qualities of the Chinese people—their industry, sobriety and submissiveness. The mission of a Catholic Bishop, he said, was mission wholly of peace, and his greatest desire and that of the missionaries of his diocese, was that the people of the district belonging to the Catholic Church should be most obedient and respectful to the authorities and generally of good behaviour. As proof of his grateful acknowledgment of the kindness received at the Prefect's hands, his Lordship offered him the hospitality of his residence at Macao whenever he pleased to call there.

The Prefect, in replying to the Bishop's speech, expressed immense satisfaction for the honour conferred on him by his Lordship's visit and for the generous expressions of esteem for his people. He further said that what he had done was very little for so distinguished a visitor, and that which had been done was much less than he was bound to do, because he was afraid that some ill-behaviour on the part of the soldiers might have perhaps displeased him. Owing to his old age he would not attempt to travel to Europe nor to Macao, but that he much respected and appreciated the kind offer.

After the visit to the Prefect, his Lordship, with his suite, proceeded to the residence of the two mandarins (above-mentioned), to thank them also for the reception given to the Bishop.

On the same day, in the evening, both the Prefect and one of the mandarins returned his Lordship's visit; the other mandarin called on the Bishop two days later.

Before leaving Shiu Hing, his Lordship intimated presenting his respects to the Viceroy of Canton, who had ordered the local authorities to show him the honour and consideration he had experienced. His Lordship wrote to the Portuguese Consul-General, Mr. C. d'Assumpção, informing him of his intention and asking him to apply to the Viceroy for an appointment. The Consul received a reply to his dispatch, in which the Viceroy expressed his great regret at not being able to receive a visit from so distinguished a personage, as he was no longer in the post, having been substituted by another official, then shortly expected at Canton, and that his present private residence was unsuitable for official reception. He returned most sincere thanks for his Lordship's kind intention.

His Lordship left Shiu Hing for Canton, and thence came on to Hongkong, where he remained as a guest of Monsignor Poizoni until Saturday the 7th January, when he embarked for Singapore per the P. & O. mail steamer Devanah.

THE LOSS OF THE "WARATAH."

A WEIRD TALE OF THE SEA.

We recently had some comments based upon a telegraphic summary of the Board of Trade inquiry into the loss of the Waratah. The following report of the Inquiry will prove of interest to many readers.

The inquiry by the Board of Trade into the loss of the Blue Anchor liner Waratah, which was last seen off the coast of South Africa on July 27th of last year, was resumed on the 16th ult. at Caxton Hill, Westminster, by Mr. John Dickinson.

Mr. Noel E. Peck, a director of Messrs. Barclay, Curle & Co. (the builders of the ship), said that no complaint was received from Messrs. Lund, the owners, after the return of the Waratah from her first voyage as to the vessel's behaviour at sea, but they did have a complaint from Messrs. Lund with regard to her ability to shift in dock without ballast. Messrs. Lund said the Waratah had not the same stability as the Geelong, and they expressed surprise at not having received plans of the curve lines of the vessel. Messrs. Lund asked the builders to take the responsibility for the shifting of the Waratah in dock without ballast.

Mr. Ibery (aid. Messrs. Lund) was of the opinion that the Waratah had not the same stability as the Geelong, and the contract was that the Waratah was to have greater stability.

"We must hold you responsible for anything that may happen," Messrs. Lund wrote to the builders. "Your responsibility for the vessel's performance is entirely with you."

Witness added that he was able to convince

Messrs. Lund that the Waratah was as stable as the Geelong to the contrary.

Mr. Buckland—Have you built many ships that would not stand upright when empty?

Can you give me the names of such ships?

Witness gave the name of one vessel which was now in foreign service.

Answering Mr. Dickinson, witness said the only condition discussed at the interview he had with Mr. Lund related to the shifting of the vessel in the dock.

"A VERY HANDY SHIP."

Captain Clark, Board of Trade Assistant

THE BORKUM ESPIONAGE CASE.

TRIAL OF BRITISH OFFICERS.

Lieutenant Brandon, R.N., and Captain Trench, R.M.L.I., appeared before the Supreme Court of the Empire at Leipzig to answer a charge of espionage at Borkum and elsewhere in August last. Lieutenant Brandon was arrested close to some military works at Borkum on the night of August 21, and Captain Trench shortly afterwards at an hotel at Emden. After a preliminary examination before the local Court at Emden, evidence was laid before the Supreme Court of the Empire. Towards the end of October the German local authorities, after preparing the case against the prisoners, submitted the dossier to the military and naval authorities, with the result that the two officers are being proceeded against under the Imperial Law of July, 1893, "against the betrayal of military secrets." They were removed from Emden to Leipzig early in September, and have been confined in prison there for the last three months. They have not been allowed to see each other since arrest.

The trial was held before thirteen Judges in the great oak-panelled hall of the Imperial Court Buildings. The examination of the prisoners, which began immediately after the assembling of the Court at 9 o'clock, was conducted partly by Dr. Mengo, the President, and partly by Dr. Zweigert, the Attorney-General of the Empire, who is leading the prosecution. Towards the conclusion important evidence was given for the prosecution by Captain Tigert, the chief naval representative. The prisoners were defended by Dr. von Gordon, of Berlin, and Dr. Otto, Leipzig.

THE EVIDENCE.

The main part of the prosecution has been to establish connection between the prisoners and the British Intelligence Service. The examination went throughout the morning's proceedings, certain communications which passed between the prisoners and a person named "Herr," who, according to the prosecution, was attached to the Intelligence Department of the Admiralty; and on the use by the prisoners of a "naval Baedeker," apparently a publication of the British Admiralty for the corrected errors in which they were alleged to have been collecting information. The prisoners used to discuss the question of connection between "Reggie" and the British Admiralty, and stated that it was not part of their duty to collect information for the "naval Baedeker." Officers were merely at liberty to volunteer such information as they pleased. The general line of the defence was to dispute that "scarcity" of the information collected and to maintain that it is not part obtainable without trespass or surreptitious means.

THE COURT AND THE PRESS.

The adjournment for luncheon the day before the trial of the prisoners, but of Germany, the proceedings should be public. The British Press was always asserting that Germany was planning an invasion of England, evidence would show that England was being an attack upon Germany. To-day's news was accordingly given in open Court, a few figures and measurements being recited. The majority of these with the question of landing facilities at Sylt and other islands, which Captain Tigert declared to be of greatest military importance. The Court adjourned for half an hour.

At noon the Court adjourned for half an hour. The President stated before the Court rose that he agreed to the proposal of the Imperial Prosecutor that the case should be conducted as far as possible with open doors.

THE EXAMINATION.

The President of the Court first examined the prisoners as to their origin and past service. They both declared that they had read the indictment against them.

Captain Trench described his previous visits to Germany.

"REGGIE."

Lieutenant Brandon, in reply to the Court, said that he was in the Admiralty Survey Service. He had never travelled abroad with Captain Trench before. He intended to collect information and place it at the disposal of a third person.

The President—Who was this person?

Lieutenant Brandon—I will call him "Reggie," though that is not the person's name. I then spelled the name out to the President. The President—You do not wish to designate "Reggie" more nearly?

Lieutenant Brandon—No.

Captain Trench was then examined. He said—

The plan originated with me. I first came to Denmark. Lieutenant Brandon was then still in London.

The President then inquired into the identity of a person who figures under the name of "Charles" in one of the letters of the case. Lieutenant Brandon had said that it was himself. This Captain Trench confirmed, adding that the "John Birch" who figured in their correspondence referred to himself.

A letter was then read in Court in which both these names occurred.

Captain Trench—"Reggie" is connected with the Intelligence Bureau of the Admiralty. Pressed further on the point, Captain Trench refused to say what that connection was.

A NAVAL "BAEDEKER."

Questioned as to the report on Cuxhaven, Captain Trench said—I wrote it in England. It was compiled from a book—a sort of naval "Baedeker." I do not wish to say how I got the book. It cannot be bought. Only officers can get it.

In answer to another question Captain Trench told the presiding Judge that he left Kiel on August 6 and went to Brunsbuttel. "There," he said, "I received a list of questions. I answered those with reference to certain small quick-firing guns."

Questioned with reference to certain photographs of Cuxhaven, Lieutenant Brandon declared he did not know it was forbidden to get photographs at the place indicated and he had seen no notice forbidding it. Lieutenant Brandon informed the Judge that he had a list of questions to answer with regard to Cuxhaven.

Lieutenant Brandon described how he went with a guide to Heligoland and made notes concerning the new harbour there.

Asked why he noted his observation on postcards instead of in his note-book and if the cards were sent to England, Captain Trench denied that he had forwarded the cards. It was merely as a matter of convenience that he made notes on cards. He went to Sylt to get information with regard to different matters, including the economic condition of the inhabitants for the naval "Baedeker" before alluded to, and the places where most could be bought, the connections between the island and England, &c. Captain Trench then went for two or three days to Norderney, where he made observations.

The President—What was interesting there? Captain Trench—There is a church tower at the end of the island, which was curious, as that is an uninhabited part of the island.

At this point Captain Tigert, an Admiralty General Staff expert, was sworn.

Captain Trench denied that his report on Wangeroog was sent to England, and he maintained that in this case "too, the references in his notes were to the naval "Baedeker."

Lieutenant Brandon—in the "Baedeker" it says that there is a certain building in a certain place. I noted that the building was not there.

Captain Trench remarked that it was not compulsory to answer the questions from the "Baedeker." Officers who travelled could answer them or not as they liked.

Lieutenant Brandon said that the allusion in his note to a "building corresponding to the reported description" was intended for the naval "Baedeker."

The Presiding Judge was anxious to know why the word "report" was used if it did not refer to a report made by Lieutenant Brandon.

The latter replied that "reported" was used in the sense of "alleged." In his note he said, "a closed building corresponding to report does not exist."

This point gave rise to a close discussion.

A LETTER IN CIPHER.

It may be mentioned that a letter in cipher from a Lieutenant Peel to Lieutenant Brandon was found among the accused's papers. Captain Trench denied that this letter was from the Director of the Intelligence Bureau of the Admiralty.

The Presiding Judge pointed out the paper bore the official watermark, but Captain Trench declared that anybody could get such paper.

The watermark is a crown with the letters S.O., and it was suggested that this paper was used in British barracks.

Captain Trench maintained that the letter was from Lieutenant Peel, who was not in connection with the Admiralty Intelligence Bureau.

Captain Tigert described the functions of the British Intelligence Bureau.

LIEUTENANT BRANDON'S ARREST.

The President—You went to Borkum together and then separated. You did not go about together?

Captain Trench—We went together to see the searchlight and became separated.

Lieutenant Brandon—The light was working. I came to a wire fence. I knew I ought not to go over. I did so and went to the gun positions, where I was arrested.

Captain Trench—I had been to the battery previously alone and then told Lieutenant Brandon that he ought to go there. I desire to tell the whole truth to day.

The President—Very commendable of you! Judicial Counsellor von Gordon, for the defence, then explained that Captain Trench at the preliminary examination had misrepresented to a certain extent the incident now being gone into, and Captain Trench then cleared the matter up, saying, "I got into the battery, having been separated accidentally from Lieutenant Brandon. I came out and met Lieutenant Brandon. I told him to go in, which he did. Lieutenant Brandon was then arrested.

Lieutenant Brandon at this stage of the proceedings definitely refused to say anything more about the identity of "Reggie."

Captain Trench declined to say anything at all about the second journey mentioned in the letter from "Reggie," which he had planned.

Lieutenant Brandon—"Reggie" is personal friend of mine. "Sunbeam London" is his private telegraphic address.

THE COURT AND THE PRESS.

Dr. Zweigert, the Imperial Prosecutor, interrupted the further development of the examination of the prisoners by requesting that as far as possible the proceedings should be public. The British Press had, he said, told the British public that Germany were continually spying in England in preparation for invasion.

He continued—Here are two British officers on the active list whose papers and admissions show plainly that they came here to gather information which could only serve to facilitate an unforeseen attack on Germany. For this reason, the utmost publicity is desirable.

At noon the Court adjourned for half an hour.

The President stated before the Court rose that he agreed to the proposal of the Imperial Prosecutor that the case should be conducted as far as possible with open doors.

THE LANDINGS AT SYLT.

On resumption of the case Captain Tigert stated that the notes found as to the length and width of the landing stages and depth of water at Sylt, Amrum, and other islands were undoubtedly military information intended to facilitate a landing. This view he based on the British Admiralty landing regulations. According to the accused these notes were intended for an English naval book to be used in times of peace. English warships had, however, never been there in time of peace, and there could be no object in compiling notes of this kind. Therefore, in the opinion of the witness, the notes could only be intended for use in time of war.

Captain Tigert proceeded, by means of a chart, to explain his views at length. In landing operations Sylt, he declared, was of prime importance as a point d'appui and the landing stages on the island had been measured and photographed in great detail by the accused, who had also procured picture postcards. They had, moreover, noted the shallows which they had found while bathing.

Counsel for the defence suggested that measurements of depths made in this way could be of no importance, as the tides were not taken into account.

Witness did not agree and proceeded to read some of the notes. He pointed out that the measurements were not more or less estimated but were actually taken.

Captain Trench admitted that he had passed the landing stages, but he had only made an estimate of the depth of the water. Lieutenant Brandon also maintained that he had gone no further than to estimate the depths and calculate certain lengths by pacing. He had never made actual measurements. Witness, however, thought it was probable that witnesses had secured definite measurements, since a compass, a sextant, a lead, and other instruments had been found.

The notes made by Captain Trench with regard to Sylt were read out, but in passages figures and names were omitted.—Breakwaters, coalsheafs, oil stores here. There are no cranes. Railway lines by bridge—bridge x yards long, x yards wide. Cement wall all round promenade. Wells in all villages. Indifferent roads. White reefs not visible at flood tide.

Asked why he noted his observation on postcards instead of in his note-book and if the cards were sent to England, Captain Trench denied that he had forwarded the cards. It was merely as a matter of convenience that he made notes on cards. He went to Sylt to get information with regard to different matters, including the economic condition of the inhabitants for the naval "Baedeker" before alluded to, and the places where most could be bought, the connections between the island and England, &c. Captain Trench then went for two or three days to Norderney, where he made observations.

The President—What was interesting there?

Captain Trench—There is a church tower at the end of the island, which was curious, as that is an uninhabited part of the island.

Tigert went on to state that in addition to the searchlights the position of the howitzer battery was also marked on the map, and there were also sketches of Friedrichsort and Cuxhaven. There were photographs of the fortifications at the latter place and sketches of particular batteries with their strength. A certain howitzer battery had been explored with particular accuracy, and there were also estimates of the arcs of fire and distances. There were also descriptions of the searchlight position and construction of shelter works. From a dyke the angles were taken with two churches on the mainland, and the position of the fortifications entered on the map in accordance with these observations.

Captain Tigert stated that he had examined the measurements and found them extraordinarily accurate.

On the sketches dealing with Heligoland, the quick-firing battery was marked, with measurements of the distance of some of the gun positions from one another. The distances from extremities of the batteries to the lighthouse were also measured. Further, the gun positions on the south-east and north-west were accurately sketched. It was the same in the case of Wangeroog, of which very close measurements had been taken, which, in the opinion of Captain Tigert, were prejudicial to the interests of national defence.

Lieutenant Brandon's notes on this place were as follows:

"Landing piers so high, so long, so broad. Mills and large corns from the mainland. Only five buildings on the west side. None building which can contain mines. The beacon furthest out is occupied and has telegraph."
